PRESENTED BY WINONA STATE

A COLORING BOOK

RADICAL STUDENTS

STATEMENT FROM

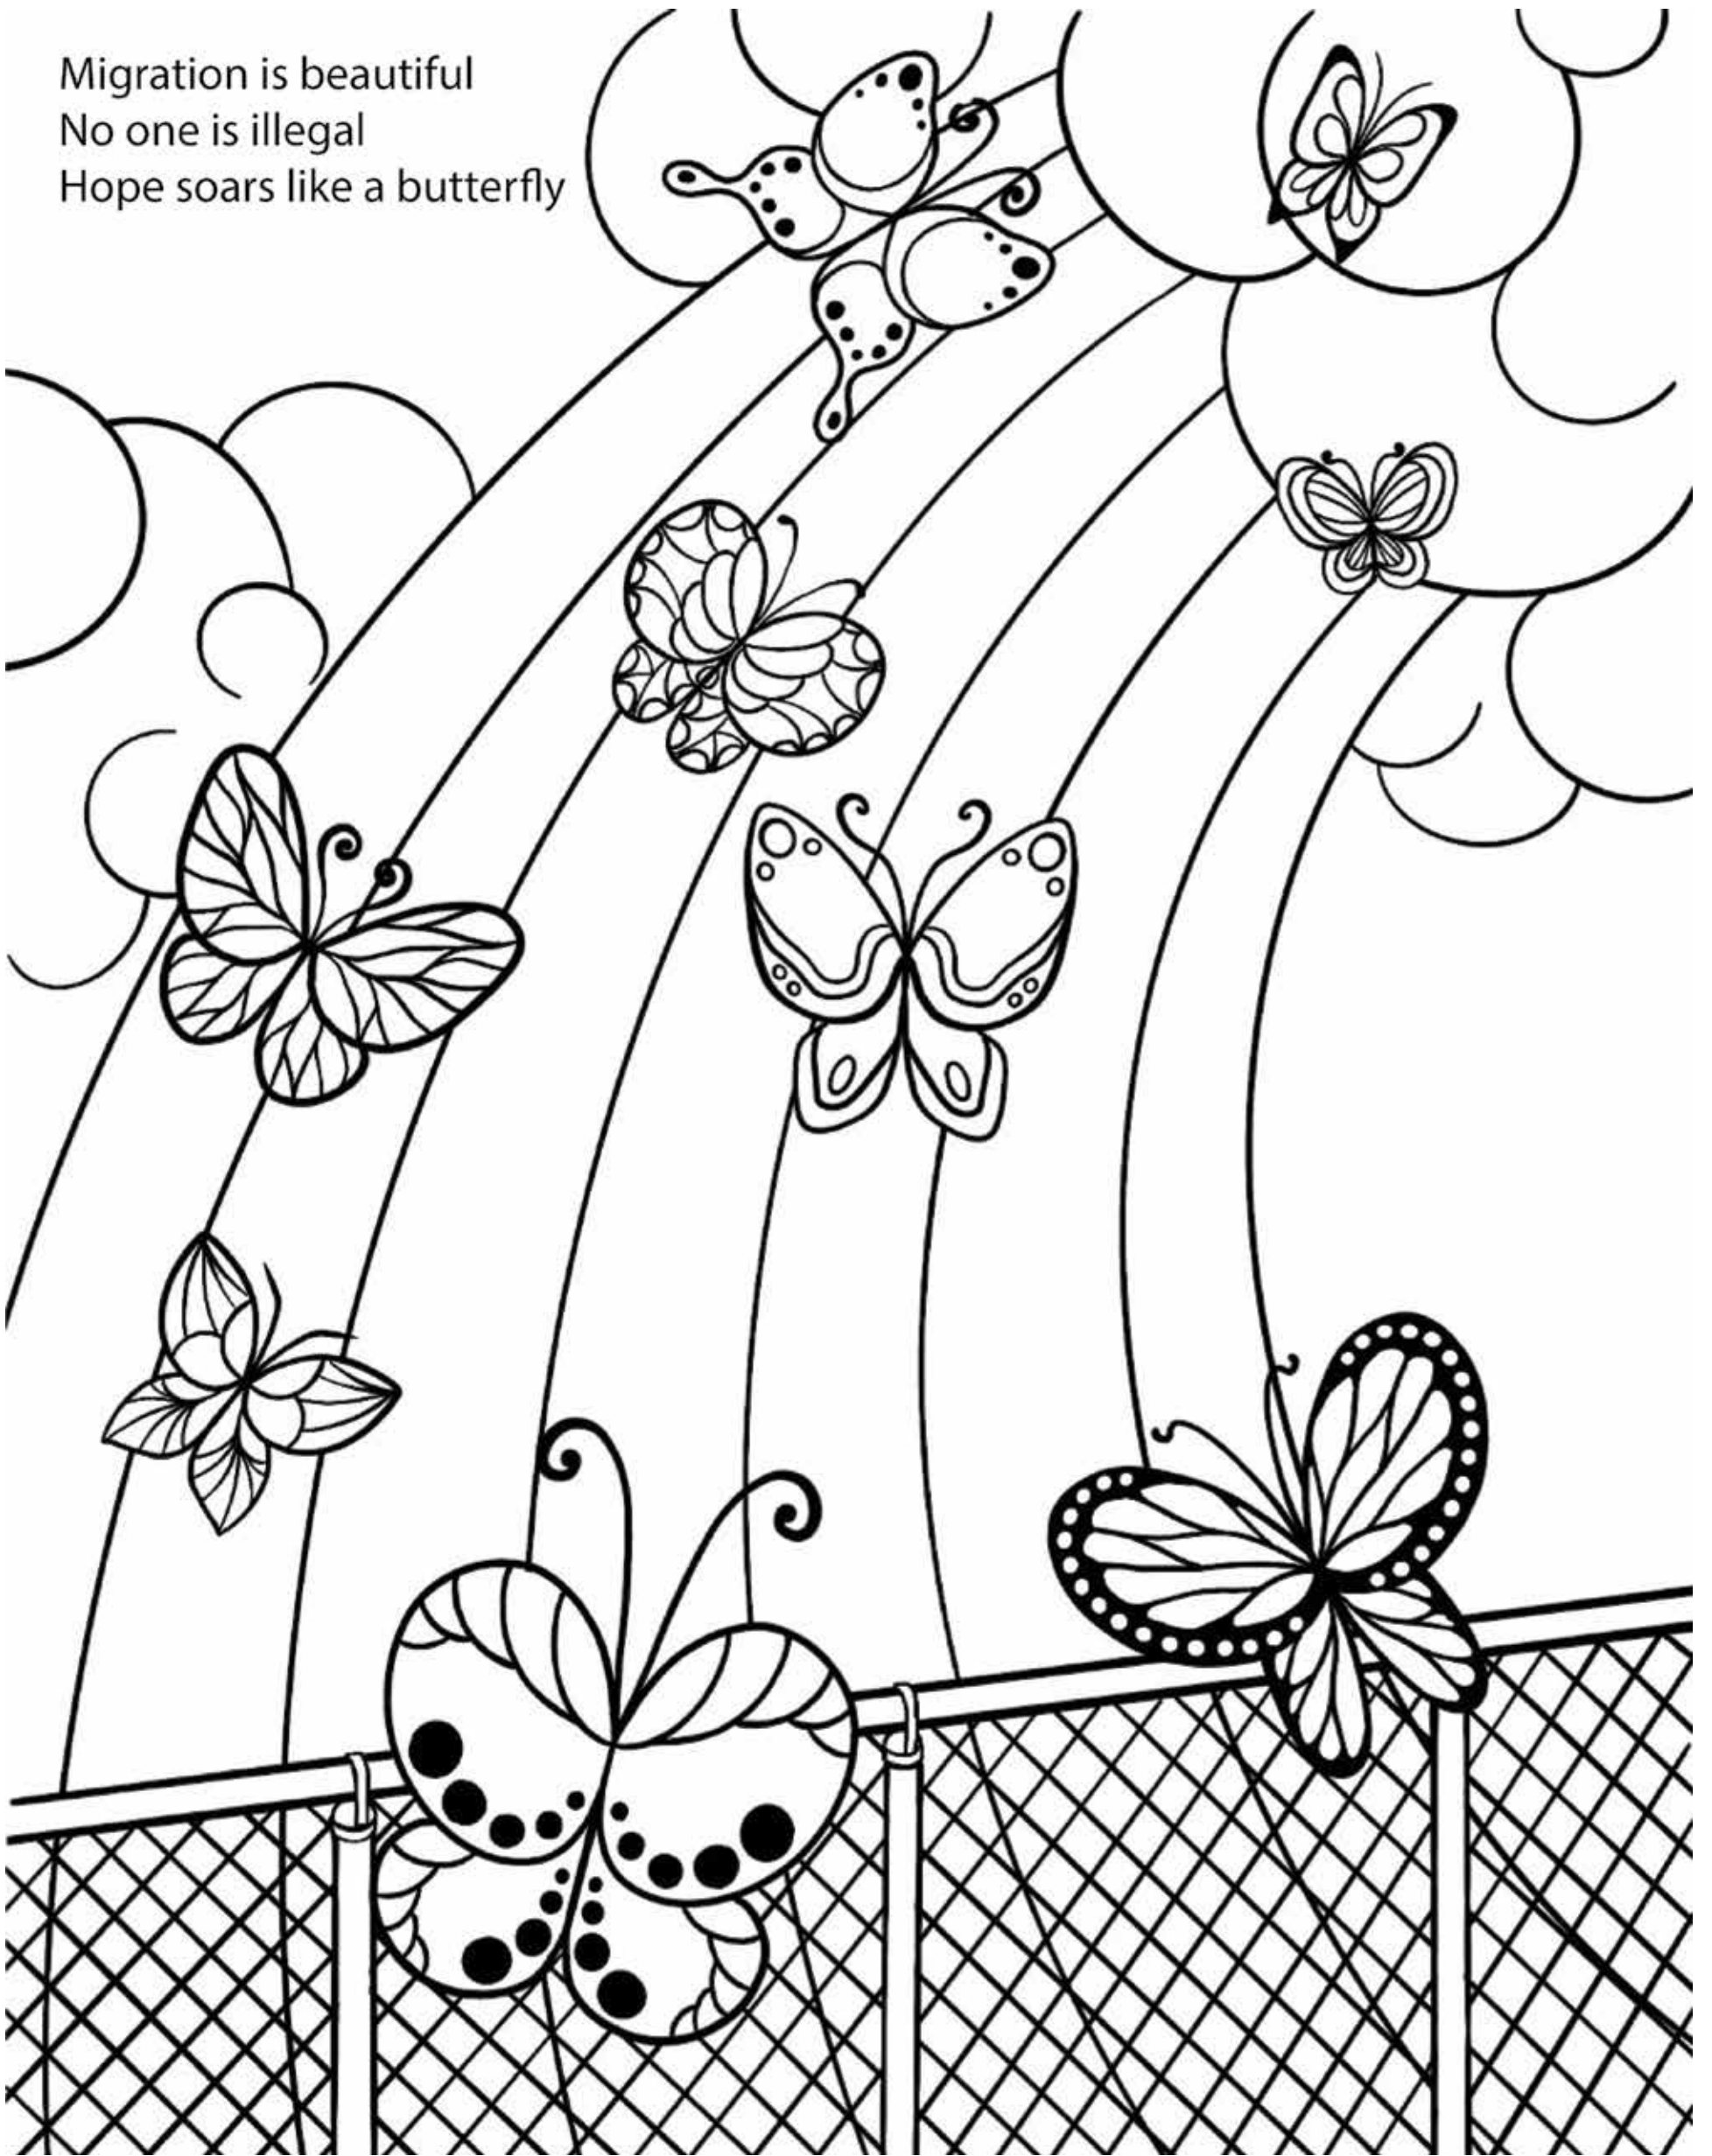

CREATORS

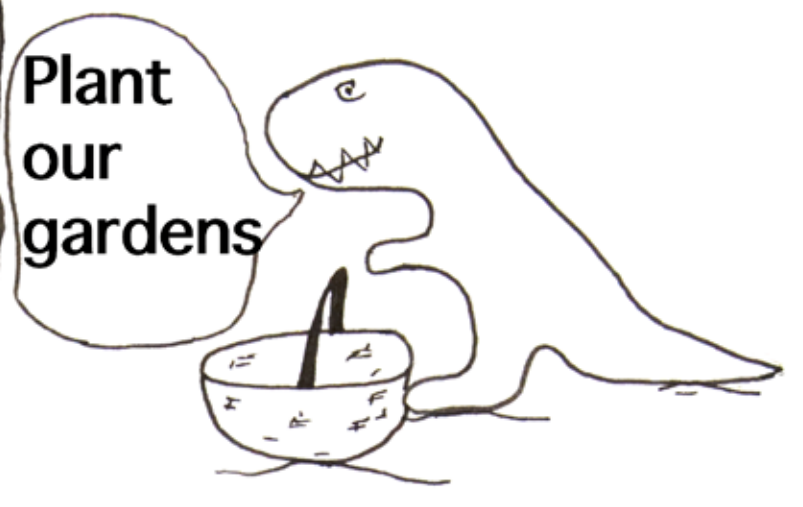

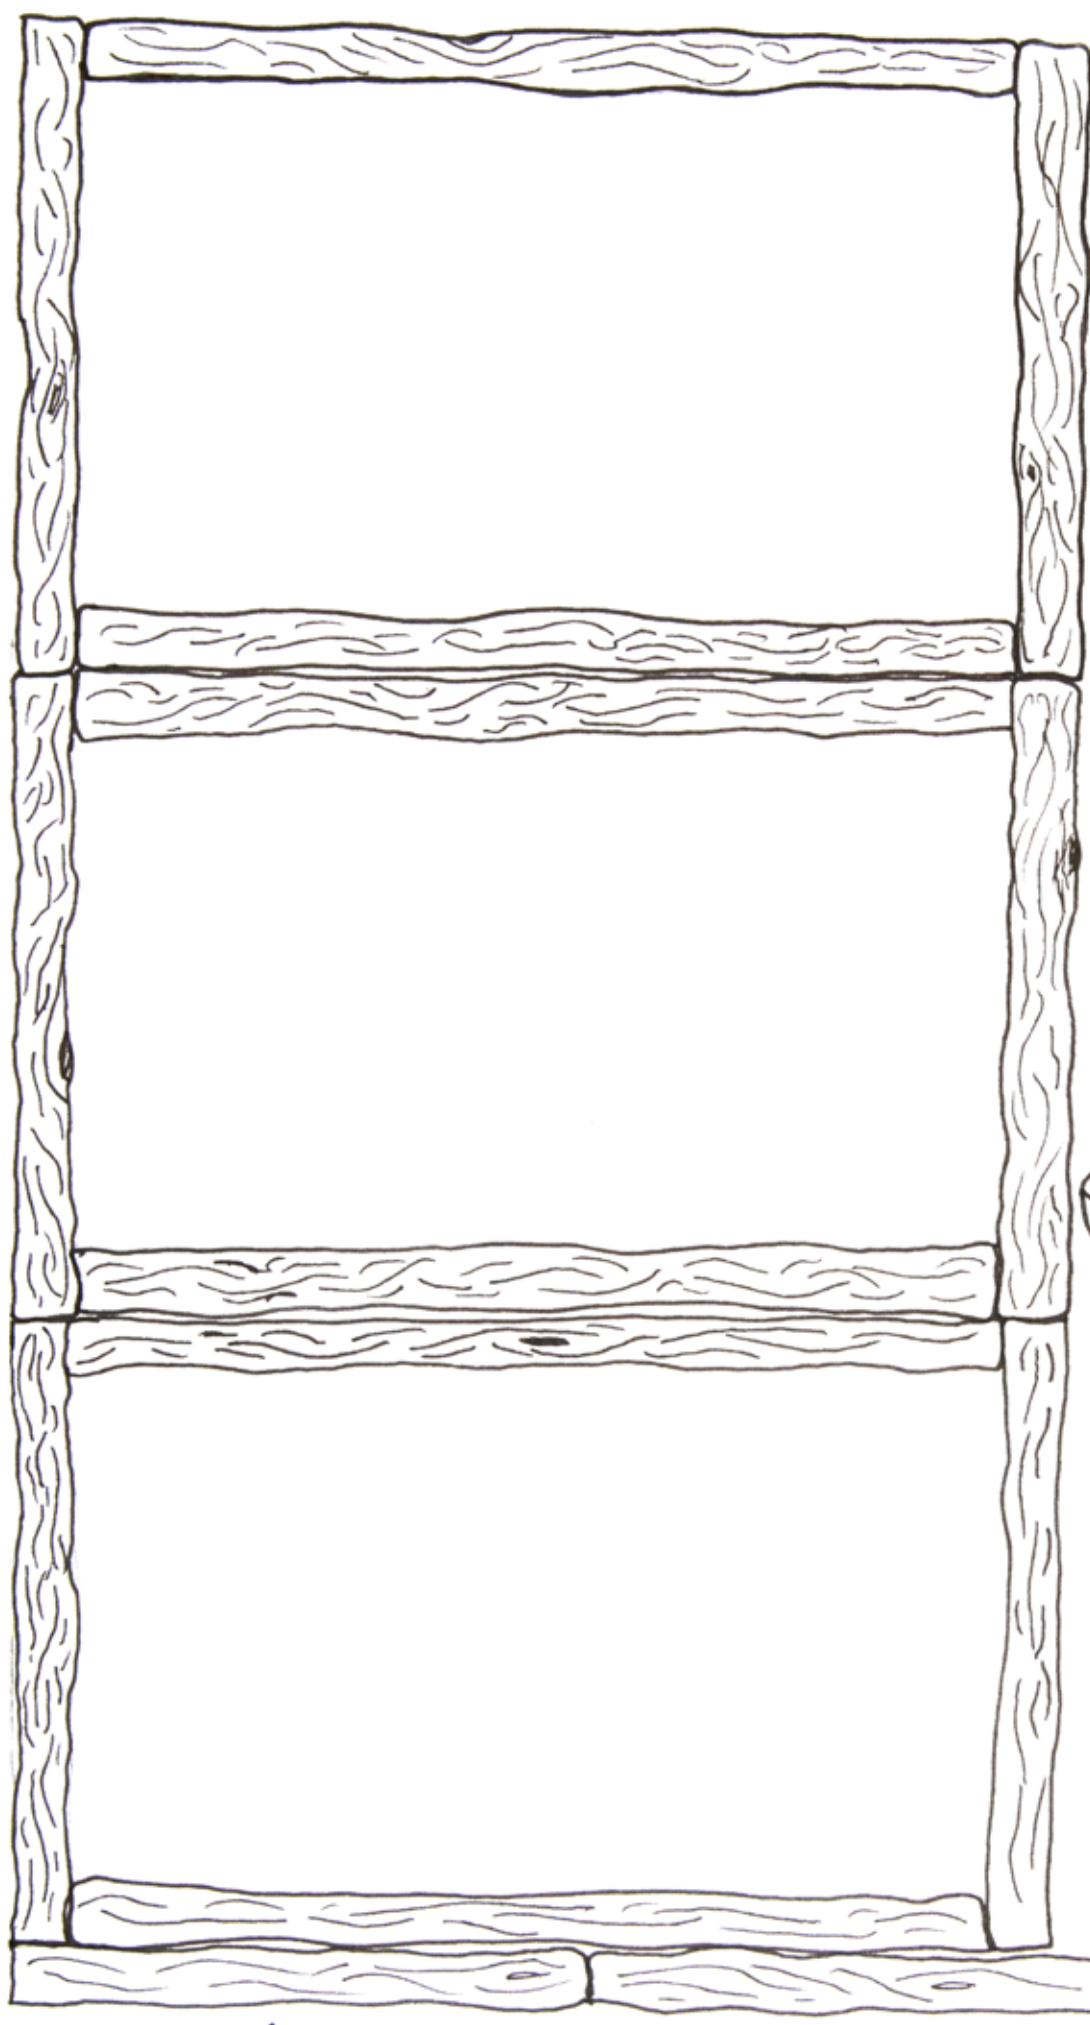

This book was created with a shared passion for social change and a love of community.

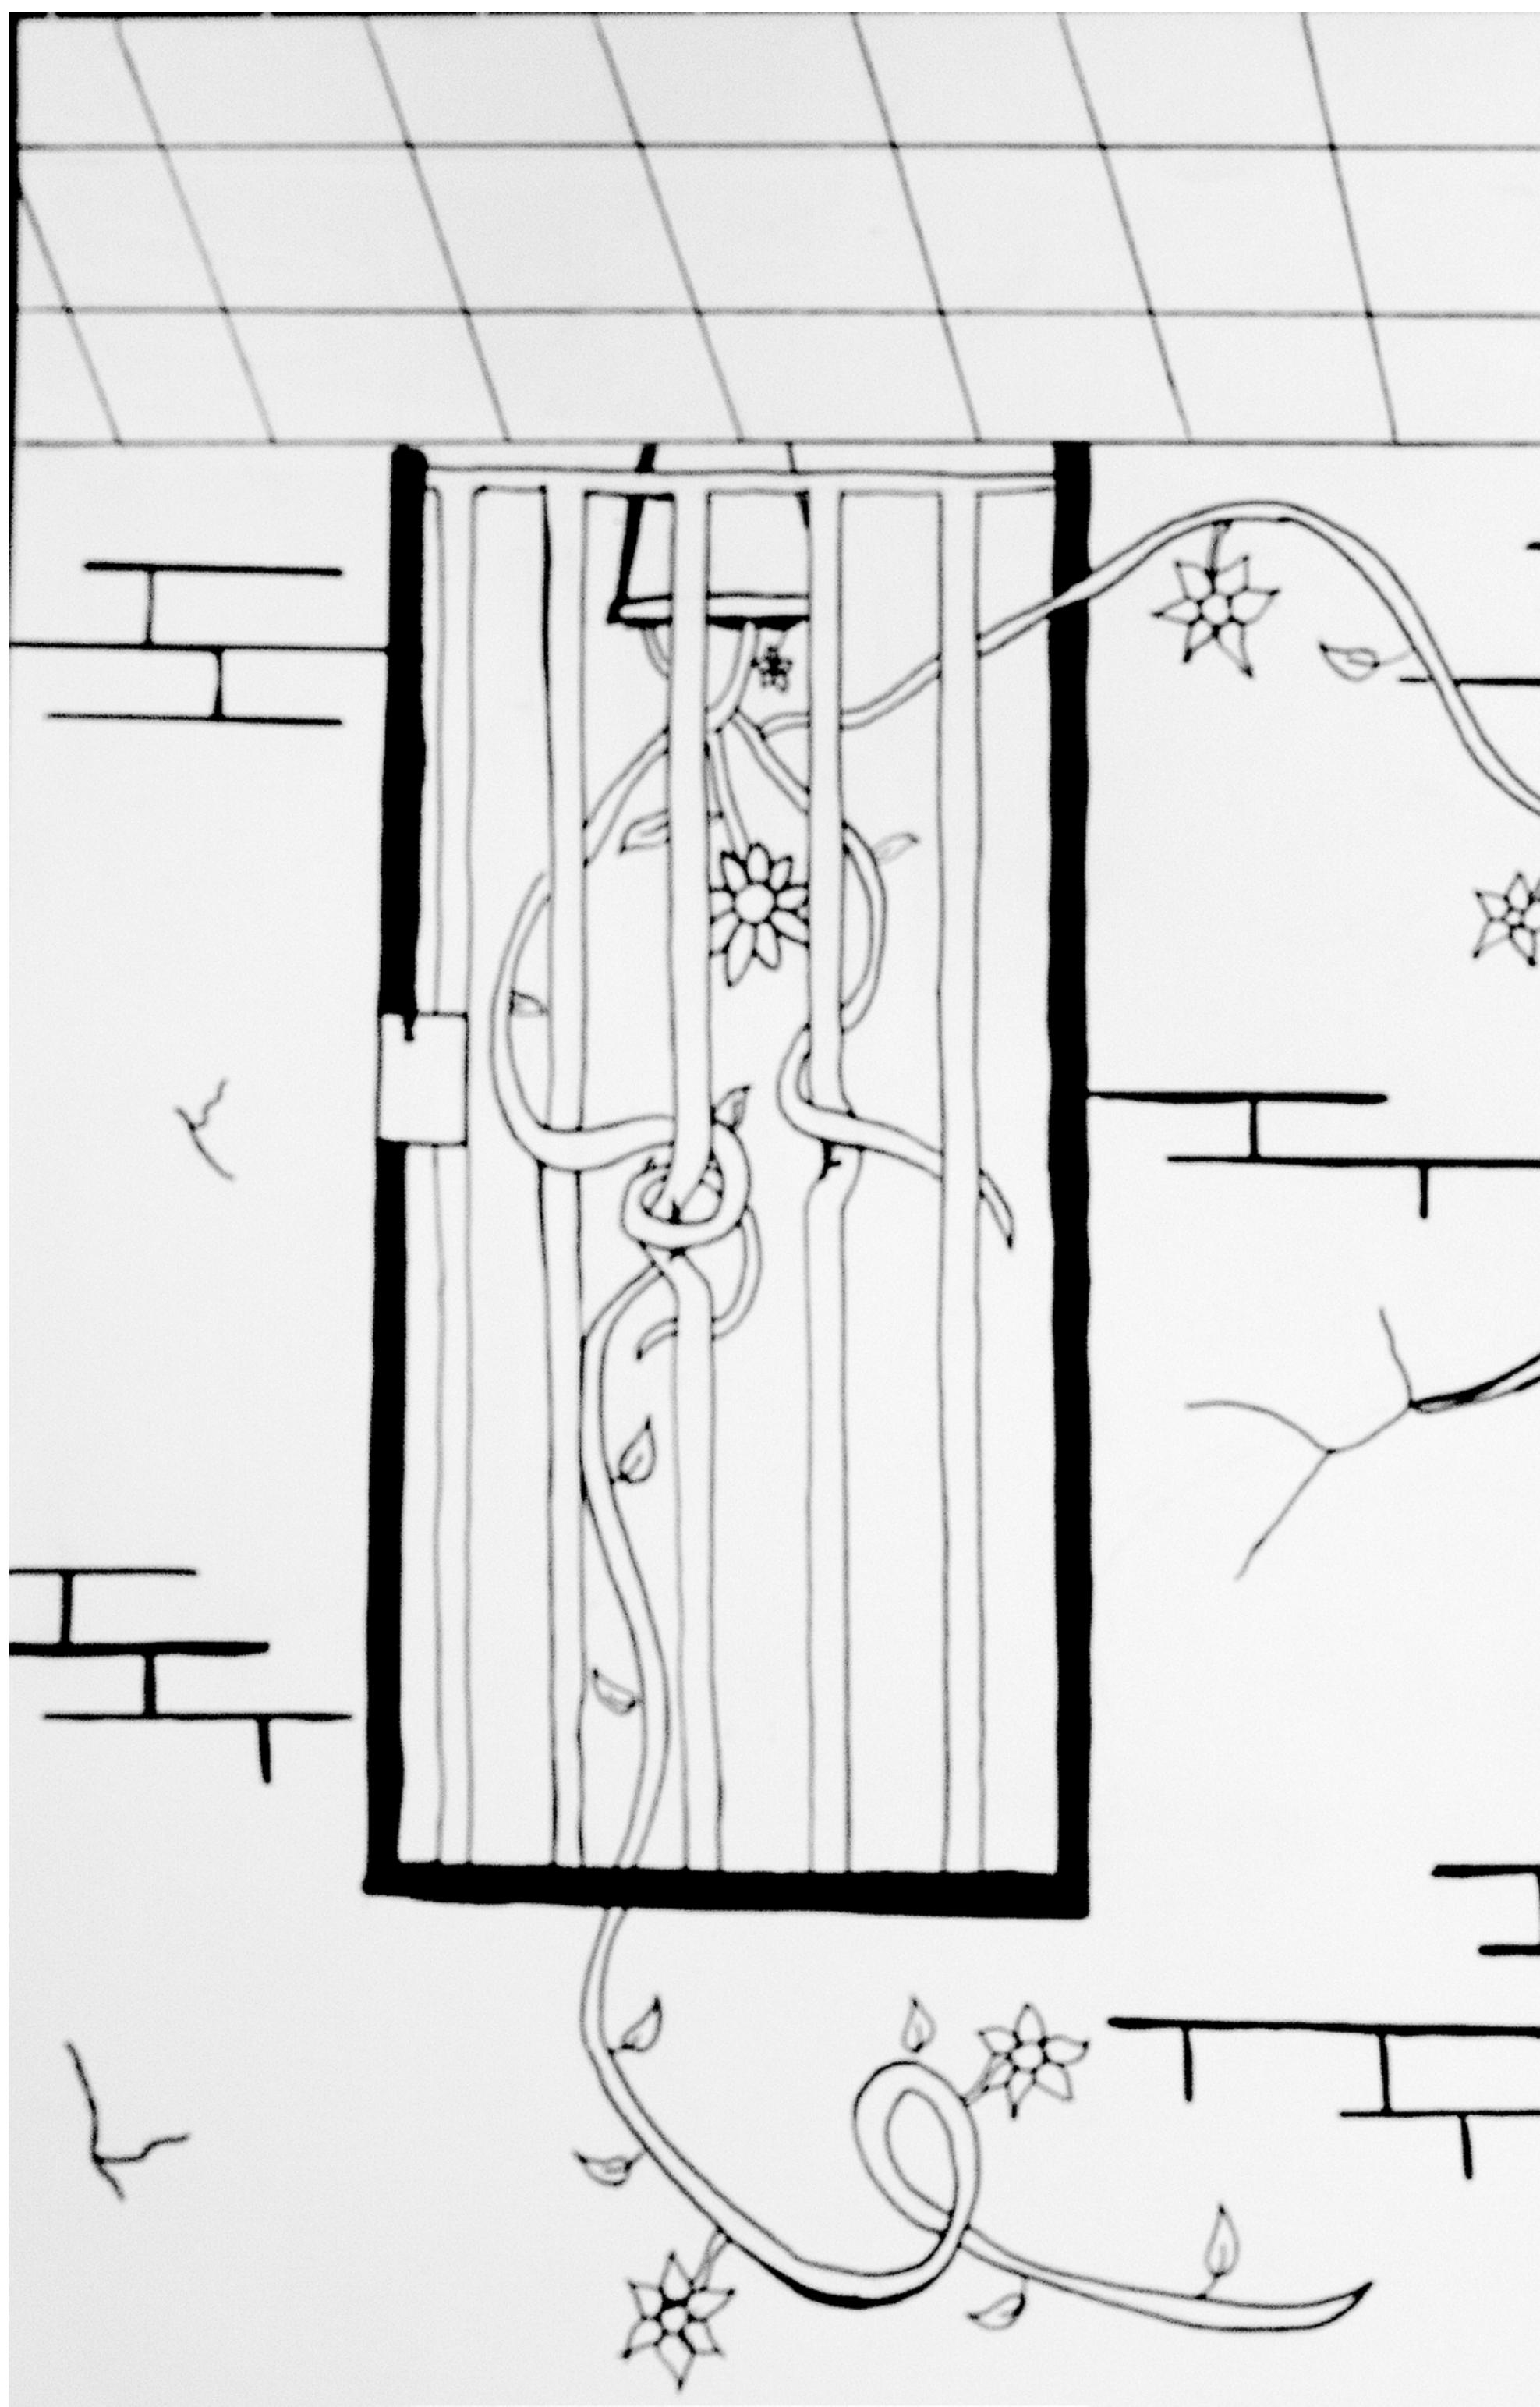

Winona State students studying art, abolition, and queer theory collaborated to create an educational text to introduce youth to collective care and queer joy. Collective care is investing in care, not the systems that create harm.

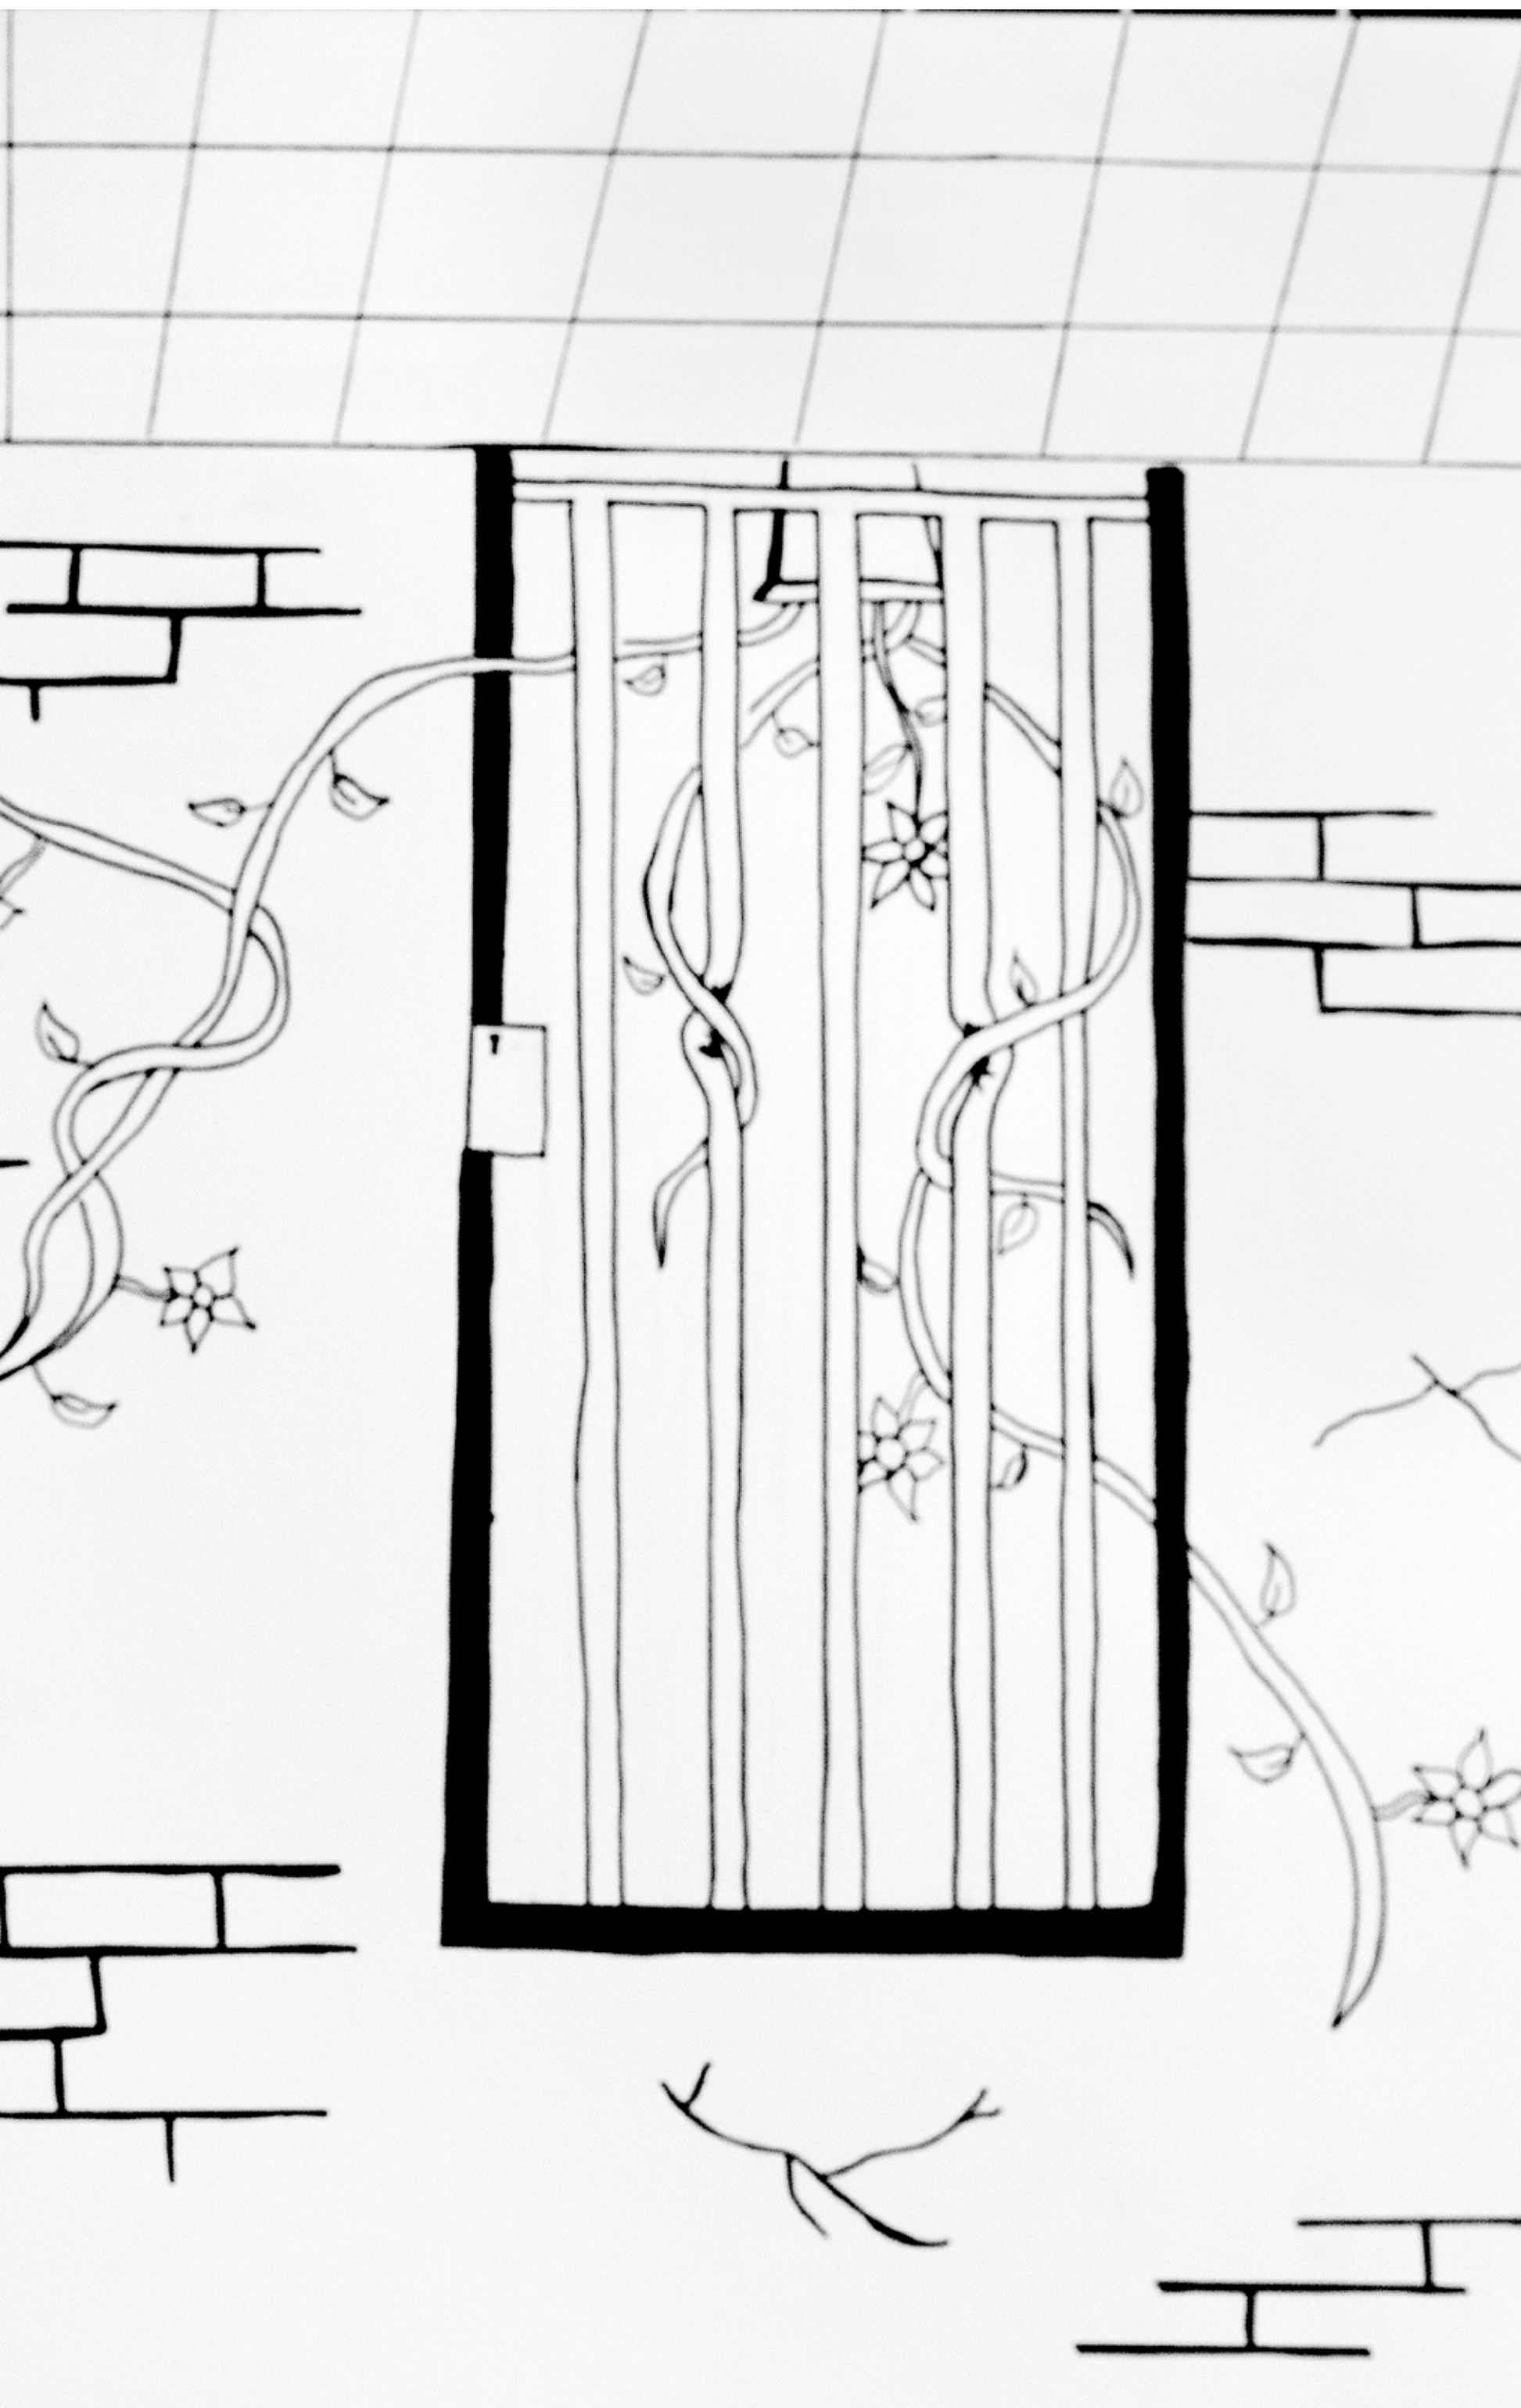

These pages are fortified by the blueprints of social justice we studied from Black and Pink, Dean Spade, LGBT Books to Prisoners, On The Inside: A Group Show of LGBTQ+ Artists who are Incarcerated, Bo Brown, Sylvia Rivera, Marsha P. Johnson, CeCe McDoald, Roderick Ferguson, and Monica Cosby.

“I love children. To me children are the most beautiful, honest, sincere, and creative of human beings. It is for their future as well as my own that I fight. My heart full of love for all people,”

Bo Brown, 1978.

Sylvia Rivera & Marsha P. Johnson founded S.T.A.R. in 1970.

S.T.A.R. was a gay, gender non-conforming, and trans street activist organization that created family outside the confines of heteronormativity and fed their community.
